Lunare ... a Wine Earning the Highest Notes

"An almost exotic fruity character, with light, fresh spices in the background and complex aromas of blossoms, dried apricots, and pineapples"...

... That's the general opinion in the latest editions of the leading wine guides on the Gewürztraminer Lunare 2007, which in recent years has garnered an almost unprecedented amount of international recognition. The jurors were generous with their praise for this remarkable wine: The Wine Spectator gave it 93 points, while Duemilavini crowned it with its highest award, the "Cinque Grappoli," and Vini buoni d'Italia awarded it its prestigious "Corona." With that, it can be rightfully asserted that the Lunare 2007 has ascended into the Olympus of wines.

But not only the Lunare succeeded in delighting the entire line of renowned international jurors – wine connoisseurs likewise gave accolades to the Terlaner Nova Domus Riserva '06, the Pinot Bianco Vorberg Riserva '06, and the Terlaner Pinot Bianco '08, all of which earned excellent scores. In view of such an abundance of excellent wines, finding your personal favorite may prove to be a never-ending task.

The Porphyry Wine Cellar:

An Homage to the Foundation for the Unique Characteristics of Terlano Wines.

Excellent storability, multi-layered flavors, and character – those are the essential earmarks of quality displayed by Terlano wines. In particular the quartz porphyry present in the soil is responsible for the unique flavor of these wines. During the renovation of the winery in 2007/09, tribute was paid to that fact. The imposing centerpiece of the winery, the Porphyry Cellar, has the local mineral as its theme. It is completely furnished in porphyry, creating an especially natural atmosphere of peacefulness, harmony, and authenticity – all characteristics likewise embodied by the wines of Terlano.

Haute Cuisine in Porphyry Surroundings

In this new architectural highlight, not only the Terlano wines, but also their enthusiasts feel perfectly at home. This became abundantly clear during the official inauguration for the new addition. On this occasion, the four chefs Santi Santamaria (of the 3-star Michelin restaurant Can Fabes, Spain), Giancarlo Perbellini (of the 2-star Michelin restaurant, Verona), as well as Claudio Liu and Norbert Niederkofler (of the 2-star Michelin restaurant St. Hubertus, South Tyrol) served their guests select international dishes in the elegant surroundings of the Terlano Porphyry Cellar.

Quality Begins in the Vineyard

New 2010 Yield Guidelines

The knowledge that quality begins in the vineyards is inseparably connected with the production of high-quality wines reflecting the special characteristics of the terrain. In keeping with that, the Terlano Wine Cellars, too, are increasingly focussing their attention on the vineyards, and in early 2010, have established new grape-growing guidelines covering many aspects of their tending. In conformance with the motto “Class instead of Mass,” the vintners will have to intensify environmentally friendly production methods and devote more effort to reducing growth. Low grape yields and increased effort to shape the foliage as well as to tend the soil have the goal of minimizing the need for plant protectants and fertilizers. In the future, the use of herbicides will be prohibited for selections and vineyard line, while vintners will be rewarded for extra efforts to boost quality. A bundle of measures designed to guarantee the high quality of Terlano wines where they start.

Wine Spectator July/August 2009

Because of "an almost exotic fruity character, with light, fresh spices in the background and complex aromas recalling blossoms, dried apricots, and pineapples," the Wine Spectator awarded the Gewürztraminer Lunare a total of 93 points. Results which the "full and fruity" Sauvignon Quarz only just barely missed reaching: a wine which "never fails to leave a lasting impression."

Duemilavini 2010

"An impressive number of wines which garner the Quattro Grappoli with ease and of which at least three stand on the threshold of greatness. The porphyry soils of Terlano have again demonstrated that they are the superb foundation for wines exhibiting extraordinary minerality and crystalline class."

Gambero Rosso 2010

"Seven wines in the final round: And which one will receive the 'Tre Bicchieri'? The choice went to the Terlan Pinot Bianco Vorberg Riserva '06 in an especially hard, almost stringent variant which is nonetheless somewhat reserved. But it's a Ferrari with its engine in first gear – ready to let loose at any minute. The two Sauvignons are likewise very good, the polite Winkl '08 and the more-robust Quarz '07, but the real surprise is a Pinot Grigio '08 displaying rare elegance."

Robert Parker October 2009

"The 2006 Nova Domus Riserva harbors notes of mango, passion fruit, blossoms, and spices in a generous and expansive style. The Nova Domus needs time, but its character and purebred lineage are remarkable."

I Vini di Veronelli 2010

The wine guide „I Vini di Veronelli“ likewise recognized their outstanding qualities: Three stars for the excellent Terlano wines, which display the very highest quality.

Falstaff 2010

"The Sauvignon Quarz, the Gewurztraminer Lunare, and the Terlaner Pinot Bianco Vorberg demonstrate how right it was to wait before bringing these wines to market. A specialty of the Terlano Winery is these special bottlings of mature vintages, like in this year the 1997 Chardonnay. Wines like these are sparkling stars on the firmament of white wines.

Vinibuoni d'Italia 2010

"And here we see one of the best Gewürztraminers of South Tyrol, which won the prestigious Corona: Although slightly more reserved, the Lunare 2007 develops a spectrum of aromas, ranging from blossoms to spices, and displays a long-lasting finish. The St. Magdalener 2007 is likewise very good, with an intense nose – a truly enjoyable wine."

I Vini d'Italia 2010 - Le guide de L'Espresso

"The white wines in Terlano have always been made so as to be able to withstand the test of time and continue developing in the bottle – a process which can last several decades: Some vintages from the 1950s and 60s are still in tip-top condition."

The 2009 Wine Year – A Very Special Vintage, Indeed

When the work in the vineyards rests and the must is fermenting in the cellars, then the right time has come to look back and see that the wines keep the promises they first made.

A consideration of the prevailing weather conditions of the year 2009 reveals a positive picture: The optimal conditions for the growth of vegetation presaged an extraordinary vintage. After the cool winter rich in precipitation, there followed an extremely mild and warm spring which helped give the vegetation a boost – by April, the quickly sprouting shoots and a premature blossoming already indicated that harvesting could begin early. The summer months, too, were characterized by a dry climate and average temperatures.

The vintners are confident, and the year 2009 already demonstrates considerable potential. The white wines are impressive, offering mature fruity aromas, a full body, and balanced, fresh tannins. The red wines – which were allowed to hang on the vine for a prolonged time and enjoy a lot of autumn sun – display an amazingly intensive color, considerable density, and a high-quality tannin structure.

In Terlano's cellars, vintage wines are maturing which promise an unbelievable taste experience.
